386 | A Dream Castle For Your Child

For his own grandchildren architect Ed Janke has designed and rendered in ink and watercolor an imaginary dream castle. The renderings are in the classic European architectural method and the castles are in the style intended to be whimsical, carefree and fun. Each castle has the child's initials, scaled images of the parents, along with other items to make it personal. The castle can thus be their first piece of art. Approximate size is 18" x 24" and will take a month to draw and paint.
